GARDENING CLUB

During April we are launching a gardening club with an emphasis on “growing to eat”. Members will pay a membership fee and receive a free copy of the new book ‘Fruit and Vegetables for Scotland’ by Ken Cox and Caroline Beaton. The aim is to meet several times a year for garden visits, talks, discussions, help and advice. Look out for more information in the next Newsletter!

Artist in Residence: Anne Gilchrist from 1st April

Big Shed Wins Carbon Trust Award

We are delighted to announce that the Big Shed won first prize in the Low Carbon Building Awards 2013, in the new-build category. Sue, Katy and Dolan are pictured here receiving the award from Paul Wedgwood, General Manager, Carbon Trust Scotland, who said; "Our two winning buildings The Big Shed and the Scottish National Portrait Gallery (refurbishment winners) not only embody low carbon design principles, but also deliver reduced energy demand, sustainability and a high quality of occupant experience. They should be held up as exemplary case studies of best practice"

"A low key community hall in Perthshire and a nationally significant institution in the heart of the capital couldn't be further apart in terms of budget, function and setting but what they share is a unifying embrace of low carbon principles as the foundation of successful design"
